March 2002

Masterclasses at-sunrice

Your best chance to meet and interact with world-renowned guest chefs coming to The World Gourmet Summit (WGS) 2002 will be at the eight culinary masterclasses taking place from 9 to 12 April. Singapore's newest and most picturesque cooking school atop Fort Canning Park, at-sunrice, will host the three-hour sessions twice a day, where you will be treated to live cooking demonstrations, followed by tastings. Copies of their award-winning recipes will be distributed to participants for home cooking, and a special privilege price will be extended to participants for an experiential 45 minutes Spice Garden Walk conducted by the cooking school. Chefs who will be sharing their trade secrets with you at these highly animated gatherings include Patrick Martin and Christophe Bidault from the prestigious Le Cordon Bleu culinary academy, chocolate master Philippe Marand from Barry Callebaut, as well as the foie gras king himself, Michael Ginor from Hudson Valley Foie Gras in New York. For further details on this year's WGS Culinary Masterclasses please call (65) 6270 1254, fax (65) 6270 1763, or visit <http://www.worldgourmetsummit.com/>
